Adult Class In Boating Will Begin

A class in seamanship and boating safety will be conducted at the Gardena Adult School, 1301 W. 182nd St., on Thursday evenings from 6:30 to 9:30.

Topics to be covered include piloting and use of charts, safety at sea, laws and rules, licenses governing small crafts, tides and currents, aids to navigation, and the operation, maintenance and repair of small sea-going craft in coastal waters.

A U.S. Coast Guard certificate will be issued to those successfully completing the class. The instructor, Donald Brandmeyer, is head of a marine surveying company and licensed as a Master Mariner.

Registration for the class may be made at the Gardena Adult School office from 1 to 10 p.m. daily.

The best sermon is preached by the minister who has a sermon to preach and not by the man who has to preach a sermon. — William Feather.

Scherich's Sets Special Classes

p.m., open to high school students who need assistance in various academic areas.

Donald R. Baswell, airman, USN, brother of Mrs. N. Hopler of 21633 Redbeam Ave., is serving aboard the attack carrier USS Hancock which recently visited the port of Sa-sebo, Japan.

THIEVES BEWARE . . . Weaver H. Jones, 1318 W. 221st St., saying he was fed up with gas thieves siphoning fuel from vehicles parked in the neighborhood, including those parked beside homes and on garage aprons, posted this sign this week as a warning to those drifting through the area looking for some cheap fuel. Jones added that he was serious about the warning. (Herald Photo)
